

Harry's Take

December 20, 2022

Sometimes You Have To Look Beyond the Obvious

It's almost Christmas, so consider giving yourself a present. You deserve to make more money next year.

This year has sucked like I said it would in the equity markets, and more downside is on the way. But that's in the usual markets, where computer firms spend millions on algorithms and the individual investor doesn't stand a chance. You need a market where you have an advantage. You have to look beyond the obvious.

Back in April 2021, I let you know about an unusual strategy offered by financial analyst John Del Vecchio. He has a background in forensic accounting and knows how to tell a good deal from a bad one. We have worked with John for more than a decade. He's contrarian and doesn't deal with B.S., which is good for me. He focuses on microcap stocks, because big investor firms can't buy enough of them to make a difference in their portfolios. Wall Street ignores them, which is exactly what John wants.

But it's not enough to focus on the right sector, you have to be able to figure out which of these stocks have the best chances of going big and which ones are losers that will drag you down. That's a big deal right now, with markets in the toilet... and I see them staying there until the end of 2023, if not longer.

Since we showed you John's Unbounded Wealth: Microcap Millions approach last summer, he has earned 33%. The S&P 500 is down 6%.

John Del Vecchio's Micro-Cap Millions April 23, 2021 – December 9, 2022

www.HSDent.com

That's not unusual for John. He developed this model in 2019 and, of course, the back-testing looks great. But he has beaten the S&P every year since then, which is the true measure of success.

Since we brought this to you last summer, a few people have dropped out. John has 97 slots open. If you're looking for an advantage in the markets and a forensic accountant that will grind the system for you and tell you exactly what to trade, then this is it!

I talked to John a few weeks ago. We agreed to open his system to a few people from our membership on December 26, so be looking for a special email from me next week. After that, if any slots are left, we will open them to our free e-letter readers.

After a year of financial upheavals and likely more on the way, you deserve to take any advantage you can find. Don't let this one get away.

Harry

Got a question or comment? You can contact us at info@hsdent.com.